

How WWILD can help people with intellectual disabilities

Information and support with

- Feeling safer
- Helping you get the things you need to be and feel safe
- Going to court
- Talking to police
- Meetings with Lawyers
- Domestic and Family Violence
- Individual counselling—talking to someone about how you are feeling
- Groups—meeting with other people to have fun, feel better and learn new things

To talk about your situation and to find out how WWILD can help

Call WWILD on (07) 3262 9877

Let us know if you need an interpreter

Is someone making you feel scared?

Is someone hurting or controlling you?

Speaking to someone might help you to

- Think about what you need to be safe

- Understand how the law and the police might help you

You deserve to be safe

How WWILD can help people who are supporting people with intellectual disabilities

We can talk to you about

- supporting someone with an intellectual disability to recover from their experience of violence
- about making a referral to WWILD
- or suggest other services that may be more appropriate or accessible to you where you are

Community Education & Professional Development

Talk to us about providing information / training to your community group or workplace about topics like

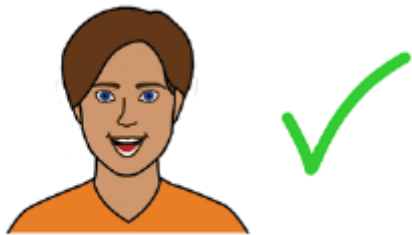

- Understanding intellectual disability
- Mental Health Support and Intellectual Disability
- Supporting someone with an intellectual disability through the justice system
- Adjusted Counselling Skills
- Responding to Disclosures of Sexual Violence
- Domestic and Family Violence and intellectual disability
- You and Me Relationships Group facilitator training

Online Training developed by WWILD can be found at www.wwildtraining.org.au

Our Vision

WWILD wants to work with people with intellectual disabilities to help them live safe lives with no violence.

Everyone has a right to live a safe life, with no violence.

You Deserve to Be Safe!

How to get to WWILD?

Phone: (07) 3262 9877
Email: info@wwild.org.au
Website: www.wwild.org.au
Post: PO Box 495
Lutwyche QLD 4030

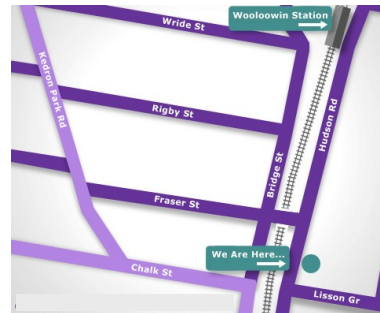

Our address is:

211 Hudson Road, Woolloowin

We are in the blue house on the corner of Lisson Grove and Hudson Road.

We are a very short walk from Woolloowin train station.

We see people in the Greater Brisbane, Logan and Caboolture Regions

WWILD Sexual Violence Prevention Association acknowledges the Turrbal and Jagera peoples as the true owners of the land on which we live and work.

WWILD

Support for people with intellectual or learning disabilities who have experienced sexual violence or been a victim of crime

Sexual Violence Prevention Program

Victim of Crime Support Program

WWILD is funded by the Queensland State Government, Department of Child Safety, Youth and Women and Department of Justice and Attorney-General.

 We are a registered charity with Deductible gift recipient status*